A NEW LOADING DOCK has just been completed and ready for use, near the Marshall and Graves County line on the Mayfield to Benton Highway. This loading dock was built by the Henderson Rendering Company, which serves several counties in western part of Kentucky and Tennessee. Trucks from all of these counties meet here and re-load their trucks into the one that go to the Rendering Plant at Henderson.

THE WEST KENTUCKY MINNOW HATCHERY and this new Loading Dock just recently put into service, and the new Bowden Cleaners free parking area and the Bryan Fulton Garage are causing interests to spring up in Marshall County where once was just the Marshall and Graves line.

CLINT ANDERSON, out near the Paul Nelson Store where Benton's Route 3 and Route 1 crosses, says the building of new homes so thick and fast makes this little spot a real village—they will have to start naming the streets and numbering the houses.

THERE IS SOMETHING ABOUT A CHURCH that seems to speak reverence as you enter the door even before you seat yourself for the sermon. It matters little whether it be a one room building with straight hard back benches or a great cathedral with tall spires pointing upward heavenward—inside this church, there are words spoken which have inspired men to turn their hearts toward the altar of Greater Power and wisdom. Thanks for all the effort of Marshall Countians to dot our own county with many churches.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS is freedom of the people. The newspapers of today are battling to preserve a Free Press. Americans should constantly keep in mind that no people have lost their liberties, so long as their press remained FREE!

FATTY YATES, the Circuit Court Clerk of Graves County and also edits the column "Chats With Fats" in the daily Mayfield Messenger, "put up" a strong cry for Help! Help! this past summer. He got it a few days ago from the Tribune when it pleased him to use part of the Oak Level report about Uncle Bas Arant's Sorghum Grinder and our own new road connecting with a Graves County road.

Around The County Farm Front

By J. Homer Miller

WINTER REALLY ARRIVED in a big way! This will mean a lot of pastures are over for the year. Improve pastures and crops will pay off for the next few months.

W. W. SHERWELL is showing the value of Kenland red clover as a hay crop. From two acres seeded in August 1950, he was able to harvest six tons of excellent hay. A seed crop was harvested in the fall. He got 250 pounds of first quality seed. Not a bad hay yield and a nice income from the seed.

THIS COUNTY HAS A LONG way to go before it will set any National corn yield records. I noticed where the winner in Illinois in their "Golden Acre Corn Contest" produced more than 265 bushels of corn. That is a lot of corn on such a small piece of ground.

TE-4 CLUBS will hold their second meetings of the year this week and next. We will be converting old kerosene lamps to electric lamps that can be used to an advantage in this modern age.

THE STATE FARM BUREAU CONVENTION will be held in Louisville, November 18, 19, and 20. The following delegates are planning to attend from this county: E. T. Inman, C. L. Walker, Paul Gregory, Rex Anderson and J. Homer Miller.

MISS LEDGE BEKHUIS from Holland will appear on Radio Station WKYB, Thursday, November 15 at 1:00 p. m. with the Cherry Grove Homemakers Club. Miss Bekhuis is spending a month in our county with the Dan Golds.

JAMIE DOTSON sold a part of his crop the other day. It was his calf crop from a large group of grade cows. They gave an average income of about $165 per head. Mr. Dotson follows what is known as the "Cow and Calf Plan" of beef production. Pasture and hay is about all that is required for this type of farming. You may want to try it on your farm.

BOB RIDER says, "We are receiving orders for trees now to be delivered next spring." Last year we ran out of trees before all orders were filled. Get your order in early. They will be filled in the order in which they are received.

Yes, it's easy to forget and to talk on and on. But a little friendly consideration for your party-line neighbors pays big dividends of good-will. Party-line "good neighbors" follow these four easy rules:

- Release line in an emergency
- Answer your telephone promptly
- Give called-party time to answer

Anyone Fascinated by a Hardware Store?

You've probably spent many interesting moments in your local hardware store, studying the 1001 intriguing gadgets on sale there:

To you and his other customers the man behind the counter must be carpenter, plumber, painter, electrician... a jack of all trades... ready with directions to help get a dozen different jobs done right.

There's a typical customer, Bill Payne, with his son. He's looking, no doubt, for a device to add convenience and improvement to his home.

You may not readily recognize him. But he and his family are here for good. He's a member of Texas Gas' Pipeline Department. His own job, like that of the hardware man's, helps make life easier, richer, fuller.

Millions of people who use natural gas in their homes for heating, cooking and other household chores, and hundreds of plants requiring gas for their specialized industrial needs, rely on him and his skilled fellow technicians at Texas Gas for a constant flow of gas—a supply of approximately 185 billion cubic feet a year. For this reason, he's at duty's call 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, to keep the gas moving through the Company's long-distance pipe lines.

Yes, this man from Texas Gas, too, provides a vital community service.

TEXAS GAS TRANSMISSION CORPORATION
OWENSBORO, KENTUCKY

Anyone fascinated by the tools and gadgets of a hardware store would be impressed by the equipment used by Bill Payne. Here, Bill, a member of the Texas Gas Pipeline Department, uses a beveling machine to cut through a length of 26-inch pipe, preparatory to installing a new valve that regulates the flow of gas through the pipe lines. Like Bill Payne, members of all Texas Gas departments must know how to handle special equipment and tools.

By Herbert Anderson

A. L. McGregor has seeded about fifty acres of fescue on his land along Clark's River. This land overflows and for the last few years it has been impossible to grow a crop of corn. Stopping for a moment to rest and wipe the sweat from his brow, Robert Harrison and I sat down by the fence to talk about the pasture he was seeding and his cover crops.

Harrison, whose farm is located east of Hardin, said, "I want a good pasture in this field. I have worked into the seeded what I think is plenty of fertilizer and I am sowing a lot of seed as you can see."

The corn land over in another field was to be disked and seeded to a small grain cover crop a little later.

W. M. Turner, south of Olive, is seeding rye on about six acres of and which was in corn this year.

This was a hillside field. Like many others in the county it needs something growing on it during the winter to hold the soil.

Turner, a cooperator with the Marshall County Soil Conservation District, also improved and seeded five acres to permanent pasture as a part of his soil saving work for this year.

C. E. York, south of Unity Church, worked in a small gully with his disc before sowing fescue and small grain.

This gully was in a natural valley which collects water from the hills on each side. When such valleys are established in sod, soil can be saved if they are maintained and never plowed.

Clarence Newton, south of Benton, has disked down his corn stalks.

This is a good soil conservation practice which many farmers are doing now. It is sometimes called stubble mulching. The leaving of stubble such as small grain, lespeza, or corn on top of the soil or worked into the top inch or two protects the soil from erosion. Less protection is given if it is left standing. Complete soil and water conservation farm plans which have been delivered this month are those of William Washburn, west of Bear Creek Camp; Moscoe Lindsey, north of Benton; Otto Cann, Benton; and John O'Daniel on W. T. Moore's farm west of Calvert City.

 Corn gathering is the main topic of the day down in these parts. I hope the job will soon be finished, then it will be stripping tobacco.
 The women are doing the turning this year—the men have turned better.
 We have had two weddings down this way within the last week. Miss Earlene Woods and Mr. Henry Harold Hamlet, Miss Dixie Woods and Mr. Guy Barker. These congratulations to these young folks.
 Mrs. Lela Thompson visited Mrs. and Mrs. Headley Thompson this week. Miss Polly Green visited with Leviathan Hunt last Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Jas.

Hamlet and little daughter, Martha Gayle, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Ivey, and William Stone are in Illinois this Sunday visiting Mrs. Ivey's sisters.
 Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Wood have finished remodeling their home. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Henderson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hunt visited Mr. and Mrs. Avery McManus, Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ead Howard have moved in the Cherry Grove neighborhood. (Sure is nice to have such a lovely family.) The Grove can have the best folk. Effie of the T-bone, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wood are moving to the home. Mr. and Mrs. Howard left. There will be a Fiddlers' Contest at the Breezeel School, Friday night, November 9, sponsored by the PTA. Fonzie Davis will be there. Come one, come all and have a good time with us. (To get to the Breezeel School, through Benton, you take the Symsonia paved highway and follow it for about 2 1/2 miles and turn to the left you will see the lights gleaming through the trees. No doubt, so many folks have asked this scribe how do you get to Breezeel School house. As for me, I would ask the school district to place a big white sign at the corner where you turn to go down the road to this little white house, where there has been for so long so much activity in school work. This district goes all out for the progressiveness over the county that has survived are the ones that are behind all the progress—ve moves made to further school programs.

 One time this scribe, Effie of the Tribune, was enjoying a nice dinner spread by the good people of this school district, at a school program; the school was putting on and Eld. Pol Henson called on to go on the stage as soon as we were called to order after dinner, and lo and behold, the call came while I was at ease wondering what was going to be next. Well, Polie will never know how my heart went to pounding and my mind went to rambling through the many little poems I had learned in the old Cherry Grove School under the direction of Miss Etta Shewell, and Mr. John Arant, and others who went all out for school work. Walking along slowly to the pulpit with my head down, finally decided, and my nerves got back normal. To reject any and all bids. Signed below—and I believe that Polie Henson was really proud of me as well as the Blaggs' dad, Robt.

Portrait of a Soul

Did you think a soul was invisible? Did you even suspect that it was a theological concept that only ministers could understand? Well, look into this boy's eyes! Do you see happiness... the certainty that life is full of beauty and truth? Do you see hope... the assurance that every tomorrow will be better than every today? Do you see courage... the fortitude that will look through defeat to victory? Do you see faith... the confidence that God hears, and knows, and cares, and helps? You're looking into a soul! You're seeing the spark of Himself which God has put into every one of us. And you're seeing it still unblemished by the cares and disappointments of life. You can see a soul through your own child's eyes. But unless you give that soul a chance to grow up with the body and mind that possess it... soon you'll no longer see it in your child's eyes... and perhaps, someday, you'll no longer see it in his life. The Church, through careful religious education, develops that spiritual inner-being which we call the soul. Your child deserves the advantage of the Church's instruction. And, in church worship, you will rediscover the beauty and strength of your own soul.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
